Myopia Hunt Club

No one was more committed to Center House than Chairman of the Board George C. Cutler. An inveterate contrarian, George would never accept the status quo. He challenged Center House to improve and expand services, as he cared about people on a deeply personal level.

One of his most enduring legacies has been the Memorial Golf Tournament. Played annually at Myopia Hunt Club, the tournament has raised more than 2 million dollars in support of programs that help adults who are facing the challenges of mental illness and developmental disabilities.

As with all Bay Cove programs, the hallmarks of Center House programs are innovation, effectiveness, and a structure that facilitates independence, dignity, self-determination, and community integration for its members. The programs include day treatment, employment and education programs.

BAY COVE
HUMAN SERVICES

Center House Programs

Proceeds from the George C. Cutler Memorial Golf Tournament benefit Bay Cove's Center House programs, which provide a range of services to individuals who face the challenges associated with mental illness and/or developmental disabilities.

As with all Bay Cove programs, the hallmarks of Center House programs are innovation, effectiveness, and a structure that facilitates independence, dignity, self-determination, and community integration for its members.

One of the core Center House programs is Center Club, a clubhouse for adults with psychiatric disabilities that is dedicated to the principles of self-help, peer support, and empowerment. Center Club offers a safe and supportive environment in which members can work at their own pace toward rewarding employment, education, decent and affordable housing, a social life, and overall well-being. Throughout the Covid crisis, Center Club has continued to provide connection, community, and hope. Click on this video link to hear Center club members describe, in their own words, what this has meant to them.
